Portable edition of Translate.Net - a translation application with support for many languages. Instead of installation and setup, the program is available in the form of a self-extracting executable. Thus, Translate.Net is easy to install and use. Installing Translate.Net is very simple: just drop the executable file on the hard disk and double-click on the icon. The program's interface is divided into tabs. Use the following: General - read/set the installation data, options, languages and services; Files - import and export files; Settings - user and language settings; Help - help files. A window with a standard layout displays the most important settings and toolbars. In addition, the interface is divided into a few different tabs. Translation interface: This tab is full of useful options. The first section of the interface contains fields to accept the input language and the output language of the translation. In addition, the interface offers easy access to the history file, which enables you to toggle between the source text and the translated text for each translated block. To the left, you can see a list of services, select which ones to use for the translation process. In addition, it is possible to set the applications to work in batch mode. The second section contains options that you can set to facilitate and speed up your work. You can set the word list size, the speed of searching for matching phrases, also enable or disable the translation margins, and choose the direction of the translation. You can also leave a written message for the translator, configure the source and target paragraphs, set the text highlighting color, and the text color, plus much more. To facilitate and speed up your work, you have the following options: Menu - create a general menu with predefined settings; Context menu - make contextual menu of all actions you do on the program interface; Control panel - add a control panel to customise settings; Settings - enable and manage settings. Language settings: Cleaning: Enable to clear all language settings in Settings. Languages: To manage the installed language packs, select Edit Languages. There you can uninstall or enable any language. Services: To customize the installed services, select Edit Services. There you can select the services from the list that you want to use. There is also a field to create your own service. Virtual keyboard: Translate.Net's interface offers access to the virtual 6a5afdab4c
