Transferred to a perfect modern setting, famed writer Mamoru Hosoda influences the creativity and production values—everything, right down to the sound—of battle and game elements. A nostalgic fantasy filled with pathos, humor, stylish observation, and so on.

At one foot off the ground and at one hand in the air. In the Lands Between, be careful not to slip as you leap forwards on one's toes with one's own body, and simultaneously move forwards with two blades in your hands.

Ry-se-doe Ry-se-doe (rhymes with "sigh-day-o") is an American band from the Twin Cities, Minnesota. Formed in 2004, the band originally consisted of Daniel at the Backseat (vocals), Danny at the Wheel (guitar), Emily at the Wheel (bass) and Elizabeth at the Wheel (drums). They released their first single "Chloe" through Functional Records and one year later their self-titled EP. The band was then signed by Hollywood Records and released their full-length debut Take Me Home in 2006. The group was the opening act for the Fall Out Boy tour during the summer of 2006, having attracted the attention of the band's bassist and later vocalist Pete Wentz. Wentz invited Ry-se-doe to tour with him and Fall Out Boy on their 2007 Across the Sea Tour. The band's work has been described as similar to music by the chart-topping group MGMT. On August 15, 2008, Ry-se-doe released their second album, Running. They supported it with a tour in the fall, with Fall Out Boy. In June 2009, Ry-se-doe's video for the single "Chloe" was nominated for a 2009 MTV Video Music Award for Best Rock Video. On May 6, 2010, Ry-se-doe performed at the 2010 MTV Video Music Awards, performing the song "Under My Thumb". In 2010, it was announced that Ry-se-doe's album, Running, was on hold to be re-recorded. Instead, the band recruited Chicago-based producer James Pantella to record a new album in Los Angeles.
