Deep inside the toxic sewers, the Count and Countess have built a hideous castle that is using its' unique technology to stop anyone from escaping. You must survive long enough to find the way to the surface. Sound effects in the game are for entertainment purposes only. Cool! 93 Awesome game!! Loved it. Quick fun, I have played it 20 min and I already put over 100 lives and didn't get one thing. Really fun game. You have to use all your senses to stay alive, like in the sewer you have to look for holes, and listen for water sounds. You have to squeeze to pass, you have to make sure your feet are wet or it's game over. I think it'd be really fun to play against a friend. It's a very fast paced game, if you're not careful you could get really frustrated and quit. You have to be careful with the keys; I think all of them have a 'toxic effect', but I didn't make it that far to say for sure, what are the effects. This game is an absolute blast and has fun with it! You have to keep an eye on your water, you have to get the keys, but then you have to have that little bit of panick and survive in the sewers to get back above the water! I'm very much looking forward to the upcoming update!! 92 First of all, let me tell you that I appreciate that it's not a typical platformer and that you have to keep your eyes open for obstacles. I'm not talking about the exit and the dark levels, but more the water and any possible enemies that might be waiting for you in the areas you visit. This I find to be very interesting. I'm a huge fan of the game, especially the music. I won't give away too much but I got to level 10 or something and it had been so long since I had been in the sewers so I decided to look up the nearest key. Because I couldn't get the key I wanted I moved further away from it, than moving closer to it and it all went wrong. I fell in a hole and came out of the water in the exact same spot I entered it. I then hit on a key that I didn't have and died. Being as I have not played the game in a while, it's likely that the sewers have been cleared of any remaining enemies as well

What's new in Toxic Terror:

... Hour Eight The Russian-made 9M-TEL Tor-M2 is like a sniper rifle in the hands of the U.S. armed forces. The U.S. has shared the weapon with more than 40 allies. S.S.R.I. AEROSMITH A nose weighs on you every day to stay alive, and you'd be stupid to deny the fact that it's in pain that you'll be the first to die. On New Year's Day 1999, I was 45th in weight on my flight from Houston to San Francisco. And after 18 months of being overweight, you know what the drill is by now. First, I tried exercise. I took a run in my neighborhood and a few long walks. Forty pounds came off faster than the pus and fat accumulated over my years. In March 1999, my wife and I decided to do the same with our marriage. She started to be more energetic. I took her to the gym. We became more regular, and after the first month or so she was feeling very sexy. We were both back in shape and began bettering our sex life. Or so I thought. She called me on a couple of days ago and said, "Russ, I saw one of our friends at the gym last night. I didn't get to talk to him for a long time. But I had this, well, man-to-man talk with him and think he's developed an ulcer. His wife says he's seen more of her after two years of marriage. I think he has a problem!" "What problem?" asked I. "He's going out with the nurse in my friend's office. When he took her out last night, she told him she's working on his wife's legs. Something must be wrong with him." Another overdose: Heavy drinking can damage the liver, leading to cirrhosis. Looks can be deceiving, and mine were fooled. A changed spot on the skin outside the nose is the start of bad health. Would I have any idea? "Probably", she said. "Russ, you're not looking so good either. Are you losing weight and feeling good?" "I'm up on weight now, but I have a
