also work at places where access to other things is restricted to users only. That kind of hurts the whole purpose of having an API. Has anyone used the RubyGems API without creating an account? Is there an alternative? ===== nreece This might help: ----- alex_c I've used the easy_install gem, but no API. ~~~ jmorin007 Wow, that looks like a very easy way to do that. Thanks! The efficacy of interventions in anaesthesiology education: a systematic review. Following the completion of the first Dutch curriculum for anaesthesiology, several studies have been published on the efficacy of anaesthesiology education. These studies evaluate the change in knowledge, skills and clinical performance of the trainees. Until now, however, no review had been available of the available research. In addition, many studies on anaesthesiology education have not been published in peer-reviewed journals, resulting in the risk that the results are not disseminated widely enough. A systematic literature search was performed to identify randomised clinical studies describing the educational intervention related to the change in knowledge, skills and clinical performance. All articles describing a medical education intervention or study on a form of teaching methods were excluded. The methodological quality of the included studies was assessed using the Quality Appraisal Tool developed by the Medical Education Research Study Section of the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Medicine. The results were graded and a summarised outcome was given for each of the identified educational interventions. This review summarises 10 randomised controlled trials concerning the efficacy of anaesthesiology education. One of these studies was performed in the Netherlands.

For eng.Abstract In this study we investigated the effects of isolation and differential rearing on the response of quail chicks to a food-baited trap. The isolation rearing regime did not change the response of quail chicks to the traps but the differential rearing regime did. Differential rearing reduced the response of chicks to the traps, with the effect of suppression depending on the sex and salinity of the chicks. Isolation of these chicks did not alter their level of sensitivity to differential rearing. However, the isolation of chicks was sometimes the only means by which differential rearing could be elicited.Q: A non-java question regarding lvalue vs. rvalue and resource management Take the following example: void run(int& i) { std::cerr p(new int(5)); run(std::move(p)); The line: run(std::move(p)); produces the output 5 and the line: std::auto_ptr p(new int(5)); run(p); produces a segmentation
