duplicate file remover full versionQ: Difference between JPA 2.1 and JPA 2.0 what is the difference between JPA 2.1 and JPA 2.0? I am doing some code review in the project i didn't find any discussion about these two version. A: I have read the specification in which i could see the changes made since jpa2.0 version. In details here are the changes 2.1 JPA Specification JPA 2.1 is a minor version of JPA that upgrades to Hibernate 4.2 and introduces a number of new APIs and features. It provides some backwards compatibility through "backward compatible annotations". Removed deprecated aliases for EntityManager.getConnection() and EntityManager.getDelegateConnection() Added distinction between the type of the original and persistent instance by use of different types Improvements to the event listener API Added support for JPA 2.0 annotations for backwards compatibility Querying and managing Session and EntityManager explicitly Added org.eclipse.persistence.jpa.jpql.querydsl.JPQL.QueryDsl for JPQL 2.1 allows reading and writing JPQL 2.1 expressions; and uses new optional Entity class parameter to project the scope of the fetch (QueryDsl API) changes to PersistenceContext Added getTransaction to PersistenceContext and getTransactionNamed method to PersistenceContextResolver; and added getTransaction method to PersistenceSession; this allows use of a named transaction to not necessarily have to acquire a new EntityManager Added support for using named queries in JPQL 2.1 through the new @NamedQueries annotation Added support for using named queries in Criteria API 2.1 through the new @NamedQueries annotation Use NamedQueryProjection, CriteriaProjection, QueryProjection etc. for joining/selecting Entity objects; the entity instance can be queried and fetched Added support for JPA 2.0 features in conjunction with Hibernate and annotations Added support for JPA 2.0 features directly as programmatic API (using new PersistenceContextResolver.query method) Added the new @Entity annotation for modelling entities (useful
