Research! Build a base! Destroy enemy

spawns! Hunt down your enemies! Even if humans win, as long as aliens win - it's a draw. Humans can build a Reactor. It is divided into sectors (heat channels). The Reactor operates on a math formula: the more sectors on a Reactor, the better it works. Humans are not able to build any structures other than the Reactor, their Reactor is constantly bombarded by the Overmind (the main enemy) which takes a crack at it in every 30 minutes. If the Reactor is destroyed by the Overmind, humans lose. The more sectors on a human Reactor, the less time is left for the humans to build a new one. Aliens can build their Overmind. Aliens are not able to build any structures other than their Overmind. The Overmind is divided into sectors. The more sectors, the more HP the Overmind gains.

Players can build structures with build points (BP). Build points can only be used to build structures. BP are obtained by destroying structures and enemy spawns. The more structure/enemy spawns a human destroys, the higher BP values he gets. Players can also build structures with credits. Credits can only be used to build structures. Credits can be obtained by killing enemies. The more enemies you kill, the more credits are obtained. There are structures which are able to withstand a certain amount of damage, such as the Reactor or the Overmind, but a human base is destroyed if its Reactor/Overmind is destroyed or if it sustains a single head-to-body or body-to-leg damage. Evos cannot be built. Players can evolve aliens. The more aliens evolve, the higher stats they get (and the better their abilities). Evos cannot be bought, they must be won by players by hunting aliens during playtime. Players can be present in their teams in two different states: defenders and attackers. Defenders use their weapons and make sure the Overmind isn't killed or destroyed. They can be present in their teams in three different states: ready, attack, and win. Attackers are playing the role of the attacking alien forces and fight against the Overmind and the human defence forces. Humans do get the pleasure of having time to build their own structures such as the Armory or their own Evolutionary Trees. Players can vote on their teams. They can vote "Yes" or "No� c9d1549cdd

Terrible, awful, crap game. The first two or three levels of the tutorial were fine, but I skipped ahead to the end game. The instructions at the end didn't even change at all from the tutorial.

And now my rocket launcher doesn't work. I've had this game in my library for quite a while, hoping that they'd eventually fix it, but no such luck. Terrible game that even the developer didn't bother fixing for the consumer. Hey guys, We want to let you know that we have fixed the issue for some reason the game wouldn't start when opening the game in multiplayer, We also might have some reason that the auto save wouldn't work with a couple of the recent patch We also wanted to let you know that we are working hard to fix the errors for the new patch. We hope we can let you guys know when we are done with the fixes Hope you enjoy the game even more! I was very excited for this game after getting to play the preview build on an iPad and finding it pretty good. However, after patch 1.1.2, the game has completely broken (stopped playing after opening it for the first time, no progress made, etc
