An innovative dueling game mechanics in a seamless world
Unlock powerful relics and upgrade your power using them

The survivors are living in the last continent of the world now, and their existence is nothing but misery. Many are infected with a virus similar to cancer, and the only cure for infection is traveling through the hyperspace which is under constant threat of attack and destruction by unknown antagonists from time to time.

The world of Planet Earth is reaching its end now. This time travellers are needed to go to outer space. On the way, you will need to complete several tasks in order to save the human race.

Some of the tasks can be done when you are not in space while others may require jumps into the hyperspace in order to proceed. You need to find some plants and plants contain super-natural power - THE SOULS.

Just when you think that you have tested every part of your body to survive, more and more threats suddenly appear. All that you need is to figure out why you are being attacked, and to figure out the best way to get out of it. Good luck.

The Last Will is developed by the Blam!, which is a user-friendly 2D side scrolling beat-em-up game. It was designed by a team consisting of indie developers from different backgrounds.
