Optimal clinical management of patients in nuclear medicine departments: a report on the practical experiences of nuclear medicine consultants and associates. At our institution, the overwhelming majority of patients referred to the Nuclear Medicine Department are first seen by consulting physicians in other primary care settings, and then referred to the Nuclear Medicine Department for further evaluation. We thus describe the experience of Nuclear Medicine Consultants and Associates in evaluating the medical histories of these patients and their daily clinical management of those with abnormal findings. The report summarizes the factors that are likely to affect practice patterns and that may result in variations in clinical management of patients in Nuclear Medicine Department. Q: Multiple button clicks and the appearance of multiple elements I have this weird problem that appears when I do a multiple click but only one click gets the trigger, yet whenever I check if the click is within the if statement, it runs normally. What am I doing wrong? Here is my code var x = document.getElementsByClassName('banner'); var i = x.length; var j = x[0].length; var z = {'i':'j'} for(var c=1;c
