We have developed a method for the isolation of partially purified thymidylate kinase (EC 2.7.1.51) from HeLa cells and have applied it to the analysis of thymidylate kinase from three different human cell lines: HeLa, MCF-7, and T24. HeLa thymidylate kinase is expressed constitutively and at high levels in culture cells. MCF-7 thymidylate kinase is expressed by the cells in a regulated fashion and at low levels, and T24 thymidylate kinase is expressed in a comparable fashion to HeLa cells, but at very low levels. The thymidylate kinase from these three human cell lines was resolved by isoelectric focusing into four isozymes with pl values of 6.4, 6.7, 6.8, and 7.3. The thymidylate kinase activity from HeLa cells resolved into two isozymes with pl values of 6.7 and 6.8 which comigrated with the thymidylate kinase isozymes resolved from the other cell lines, suggesting that the thymidylate kinase isozymes are likely to represent products of the same gene. The isozymes were resolved into three comigrating fractions by chromatography on an anion-exchange 6d1f23a050
